"...Not until the international world view – politically led by organized Marxism – is confronted by a racial world view, organized and led with equal unity, will success, supposing the fighting energy to be equal on both sides, fall to the side of eternal truth."

ADOLF HITLER, Mein Kampf, II, I.

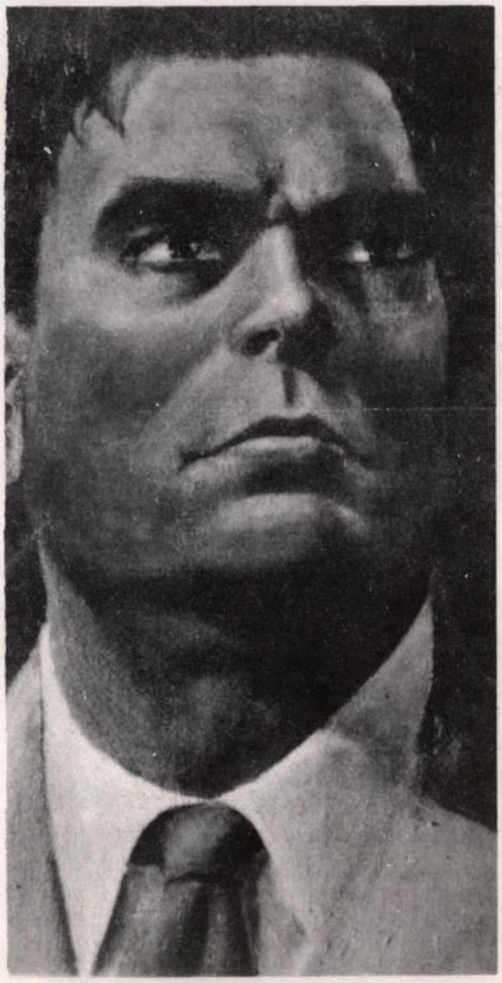
Editorial



In establishing the World Union of National Socialists ten years ago this August 5, Lincoln Rockwell created the means for the forging of a pan-Aryan world organization which would follow the guidelines that the Leader set down in Mein Kampf as being essential to the success of the Movement.

Five years ago, on 25 August 1967, Lincoln Rockwell fell to the bullets from a Marxist assassin's gun. This black deed was a shattering blow not only to the National Socialist White Peoples' Party, but it also reverberated through the Movement around the world.

What certainly seemed at the time to be cruel fate was, seen from the perspective of time, much, much, more. Like the early Christians, we had lost our Peter. We now had to walk alone. Yet the Movement was dynamic enough to maintain the momentum so necessary for its continuance and growth. The forceful and steady leadership of Matt Koehl assured a smooth transition during those critical times.

In losing a giant like Commander Rockwell, many, who before were content to see him and a handful of brave men carry the burden of the struggle, now realized that all National Socialists – to be really worthy of the name – must become involved in the fight.

The building of a National Socialist New Order which was envisaged by Lincoln Rockwell so many years ago proceeds, in spite of obstacles, in spite of often heart-breaking reversals, in spite of the loss of this great Apostle of Adolf Hitler.

Today the Movement is making significant strides in many Aryan lands around the globe. And the role of WUNS increases accordingly. In spirit and purpose, WUNS is the creation of Lincoln Rockwell and the small band of National Socialists who assembled in the Cotswolds England, on that warm August day in 1962. Today WUNS belongs to all National Socialists who share their vision of a global organization striving for the cooperation and universal interests of Aryan mankind.

Australia

The National Socialist Party has begun campaigning for the federal elections this fall. Dr. E. R. Cawthron, WUNS representative in Australia, reports a very satisfactory electoral effort.

National Socialist candidates are contesting 10 seats in the Australian House of Representatives. Victoria is the major area of effort, where NSPA candidates are running in Latrobe, Maribyrnong, Lalor and Melbourne. Other National Socialist candidates have been fielded in Queensland, New South Wales and South Australia.

The major issue which the NSPA is presenting before the public is the "White Australia" policy. This has become a central issue with the average White Australian. A recent Gallup poll revealed that White Australians are opposed by 60% to a proposal, sponsored by the Australian Labor Party, that 25,000 non-Whites be allowed into the country annually. Another 10 per cent are undecided. The present rate of non-White immigration into the country is about 10,000 per year. Thousands of handbills and posters have been distributed by the NSPA with the slogan: "If you want a Nigger for a neighbor, vote Labor."

The 5th annual congress of the NSPA was held at the Emerald Hall in South Melbourne on June 11. Approximately 60 delegates attended from across Australia. While Mr. Cass Young, NSPA National Organizer was attending the congress, a mob of 100 Jewish terrorists attacked and ransacked his home in St. Albans.

Comrade Young's house was systematically wrecked. All the windows were smashed, doors broken down, furniture, bedding, and electrical appliances destroyed, and the stove was ripped out. Fires were set in the house with debris. Numerous items were also stolen, including some loose cash. Neighbors put the fires out after the mob left.

The mob – consisting mostly of anarchists and Communist members of the Maoist-oriented Worker Student Alliance – all admitted to being Jews. Police authorities have so far done little in the matter. Several Australian National Socialists, both men and women, have been the victims of physical assaults by Red-Zionist thugs. The Australian authorities seem more concerned with NSPA camps in Victoria and New South Wales. National Socialists and members of the Eagle Corps, NSPA Stormtrooper arm, are being trained at these camps in methods of self-defense to protect themselves from the growing Jewish violence which the police seem unable or unwilling to prevent.

The first issue of the new NSPA publication, The Stormtrooper, has been released and is available at: P.O. Box 317, Manly, N.S.W. 2095, Australia.

Perseverance is a monthly magazine published by Bela Kantor which contains many articles of interest to National Socialists. The publication carries articles in English, French, German, and Hungarian and is available at: P.O. Box 125, Merredin, W.A. 6415, Australia.

Austria

The third successive acquittal of cases concerning alleged "Nazi atrocities" has raised a furor among Jewish and leftist circles. In the most recent cases, a two-month trial in which a pair of SS commandoes were accused of having murdered and tortured Jews at Auschwitz, the jury dismissed the charges.

Biting criticism of the jury's verdict came from Simon Wiesenthal, the director of the Vienna-based Jewish Documentation Center, which has provided much of the "documentation" for many of the "war crimes" trials. Wiesenthal complained, with typical Jewish enmity, that the Austrian people were sick and tired of the trials.

The Jewish Week-American Examiner (February 17, 1972) noted:

> "A recent Gallup Poll showed that 58 per cent of those Austrians questioned did not like Jews and 27 per cent would not willingly shake hands with a Jew.
> "There are some 10,000 Jews left in Austria today and one of them is the Prime Minister. Presumably people have to shake his hand, from time to time. And Israel and the Jewish people do have many genuine friends in Austrian political life.
> "'Anyway,' a Viennese lady informed a diplomat's wife, "It was never as bad as the Jews make out. And many of the Jews who were killed were really horrible people. . .'"

Many Austrians undoubtedly recognize the hypocrisy in the self-righteous super-hunt for so-called "Nazi criminals." The Jews are, of course, silent over the 100 million souls offered on the bloody altar of Communism or the sanguine activities of Israel's Haganah, Irgun and Stern execution squads which murdered thousands of British soldiers and innocent Arabs, as well as the special UN representative to Palestine, Count Folke Bernadotte, in the '40's.

Britain

There has been a stir in the press and Parliament recently over widespread National Socialist activities in the United Kingdom.

In Whitley Bay, England, a special leaflet bearing the international address of WUNS HQ in Arlington, Virginia, was widely disseminated via the mails. The leaflet was a call to arms for Britons to rally around the banners of National Socialism in defense of their race and culture.

Despite the natural outburst of fury on the part of the Jews over this type of political action, many Aryan Britons received the National Socialist message with welcome. A letter appearing in the local newspaper, the Whitley Bay Guardian, on 10 March 1972, reflects the opinion of an ever-growing number of Englishmen: ". . . I do agree with thier (WUNS) suggestion that we must do everything possible to protect the White man and our civilization."

Giant white Swastikas have been reported appearing on many buildings throughout the island nation.

Denmark

Over 100 Danish National Socialists and comrades from other countries attended the dedication of a park built in memory of the 6,000 Danes who gave their lives in the struggle against Communism during the Second World War.

Paul Sommer, a Danish captain in the Waffen SS, was the featured speaker at the special opening ceremonies for the park. He reminded the gathering that the park was also built in tribute to those National Socialists who were killed for their beliefs in Denmark during and after the war.

Members of the Danish National Socialist Youth (Danmarks National-Socialistiske Ungdom) laid out the park near the banks of the Gudenaa River, outside the town of Kjellerup, in Jutland. The town's mayor immediately protested against the memorial for the fallen members of the Frikorps Danmark, a unit which had served with distinction alongside contingents from other European nations in the great struggle against Marxism during World War II.

Unknown vandals attacked the new park at night, with the apparent connivance of local authorities. They desecrated the memorial plaque erected in honor of those Danes who, true to their Aryan blood and Viking forbears, stood, fought, and died for their convictions in the bright light of day.

On April 20, a special birthday celebration in honor of Adolf Hitler was held in Copenhagen at the headquarters of the Danish National Socialist Workers' Party (Danmarks National-Socialistiske Arbejder Parti). Comrade Sven Salicath, leader of the DNSAP, presided over the special ceremonies which attracted delegates from all across Denmark.

The official organ of the DNSAP is Faedrelandet, a quarterly publication available at: DNSAP, Sct. Knudsvej 5, København V, DENMARK.

France

An astonished French public is just now beginning to learn about the true role that France played during World War II.

The release of several books and the movie "Le Chagrin et la Pitie" (The Sorrow and the Pity) have exploded the carefully nurtured myth that the vast majority of Frenchmen were anti-German and fought National Socialism during the war.

The movie carefully records through interviews and film of the period that the French people were strong supporters of Marshall Petain and the Vichy government. DeGaulle was regarded by most Frenchmen as a quixotic figure, while the so-called resistance, which was a stronghold of Jews, Communists and criminals, was looked upon with disdain.

While DeGaulle was still struggling in 1941, trying to organize a "Free French" organization that not even Churchill took seriously, French combat units had already departed from Paris to participate in the anti-Communist struggle on the Eastern Front.

The new French generation is only now beginning to learn about their country's own recent history – 27 years after the war! With the myth about the "French Resistance" now refuted, it remains only to expose the myth of the Six Million.

Greece

Jewish circles in Greece are concerned over the growing anti-Semitism that is developing in many quarters.

George Papadopoulos, Greek government leader, recently declared: "The Revolution must purge anti-national organisms from the body politic. It must expel those cells which act in an anti-national manner."

A high-ranking ecclesiastic, the Bishop of Chios, accused Greek Jews and Zionist organizations of corrupting Greek youth in an address made on Greek Orthodoxy Day before an audience of government officials. He warned against the growing threat which the Jews and organized Freemasonry (which has shown itself to be intensely pro-Israel) present within the country.

In the audience were the Regent of Greece and many prominent ministers. International Jewry has condemned the Greek government for failing to deny the Bishop of Chios his freedom of speech and suppress the growing popular resentment against Jewish machinations.

La voie des soldats europeens. Comme le font ces Francais, des volontaires s'engagent partout dans les legions.

Germany

Chancellor Willy Brandt's campaign to formally give official West German government approval to the dismemberment of the German nation which occured at the end of WWII has aroused militant opposition among large sections of the German people.

Brandt has renounced the German eastern territories which were occupied by the Communist armies at the end of the war and were later incorporated into the newly established Communist dictatorships in Eastern Europe. The territories include: Danzig, East Prussia, Pomerania, Silesia and the Sudetenland.

During the Second World War Brandt, a confirmed Marxist, had fled to Norway where he worked with the Communist underground – killing many of his own countrymen in his service to the Kremlin. Earlier, he had fought in Spain on behalf of the Bolsheviks. After the war, he was installed by the American authorities as a "leader" of the German people.

An interesting insight into how many Germans remember what real leadership was like occurred with a Swiss-born actor by the name of Billy Frick. Bearing a remarkable resemblance to Hitler, Frick has been working in Munich on an American television special called, "The Plot to Kill Hitler."

During the lunch break, between shootings, Frick entered a local restaurant still dressed as Hitler. Frick recounted later, "The moment we walked into the restaurant, everyone stopped eating."

Bob Guennette, Frick's director, added, "No one in the restaurant said a word. They just gasped. Frick was with several actors dressed as SS men and they kept eyeing him all through lunch. When we got up to leave everyone in the restaurant jumped to their feet and applauded wildly. Some of them sobbed out loud and tears rolled down their cheeks."

"Everyone wanted to shake my hand," Frick said, "and many of the women actually cried for joy at the thought that Hitler was still alive."

Frick reports that not one single German has objected against his resemblance to Hitler or reproached him for "Nazi atrocities."

"It strikes me as funny," Frick concludes, "that people think the Germans have changed. . . My experiences in Munich have proved that Hitler is still in the heart of Germany or people wouldn't have acted the way they did."

OLD WOMEN and war veterans surrounded Frick when he wore his Hitler costume on the streets

Ireland

Comrade Terrence Byrne, leader of the National Socialist Irish Workers' Party, has experienced new acts of Red terrorism since he suffered grievious gun-shot wounds last summer at the hands of political opponents.

After making several threats upon his life in an unsuccessful attempt to intimidate the National Socialist leader, cowardly terrorists killed his dog and family pet by poisoning the unsuspecting animal.

A very successful celebration of the Leader's 83rd Birthday was held at NSIWP headquarters in Dublin on 20 April. Over 75 National Socialists participated in the event. The predominantly youthful gathering pledged to increase their efforts towards establishing a National Socialist New Order of social justice and progress on the Emerald Isle.

The Michael Collins Youth Movement is the new youth organization of the NSIWP. Named after the Irish patriot, all young Irish comrades are encouraged to join this National Socialist action group. Information on the Michael Collins Youth Movement, as well as the official publication of the NSIWP, The Irish Worker, is available at: 6 Brendan's Cotts, Irishtown, Dublin 4, EIRE.

Italy

Italian politics is witnessing a remarkable growth of neo-Fascism which is sweeping the peninsula from the Alps to the Straits of Messina. The most successful of these groups is the Italian Social Movement (Movimento Sociale Italiano or MSI).

The MSI surprised its political opponents in 1968 when it achieved 4.3 per cent of the national vote. The party advanced even further in the elections of May, 1972, when it acquired 8.7 per cent of the vote. It now has 56 seats in the 630-member Chamber of Deputies and 26 senators in the 322-seat upper house.

Part of this success is due to the abandonment of the more conservative wing of the party and a closer identification with Italy's Fascist tradition. The MSI is now co-operating closely with other neo-Fascist groups. The militant New Order movement (Ordine Nuovo), a National Socialist-oriented group, has merged with the MSI.

Neo-Fascists, many with blackshirts, rally in Rome.

Neo-Fascists, wearing crash helmets and even the blackshirts which are proscribed by government decree, have effectively swept Italian streets of the militant Reds who but a year ago arrogantly boasted that the streets belonged to them. Over 20,000 men have joined the MSI's Public Defense Committee which, in co-operation with Prince Valerio Borghese's Italian National Front, has wrought fear into the hearts of once self-confident Marxist terrorists.

Borghese was the World War II commander of the famous Decima Mas torpedo boat flotilla. He remained faithful to Mussolini and went to northern Italy in 1943, where he and his naval crews organized Fascist units which fought alongside the German forces against the Communist partisans and the advancing Allied armies.

The MSI claims over 400,000 card-carrying members, 30 per cent of whom are below the age of 20. It has its own labor organization, the Italian Confederation of National Labor Syndicate, which claims a million members. The Communist and bourgeois labor unions, totaling a membership of five million, refuse to recognize the growing neo-Fascist labor organization.

A literal revolt developed last July, in which 15,000 troops were required to restore the situation. The trouble began when Communist government officials in Rome tried to switch the provincial capital of Calabria from its traditional site, Reggio Calabria, with a population of 150,000, to Catanzaro, population 75,000 – a much smaller city but a center of Marxist strength in the south.

The neo-Fascists, with the avid support of the entire populace, seized and barricaded Reggio Calabria, driving the Reds out of the city. This brought back many unpleasant memories to the leftists of the squadrist seizure of most Italian cities during the early 20's, an event which led up to the March on Rome.

It's clear that the Marxist-oriented government in Rome can not rely very heavily upon the armed forces. The 500,000-man military favors the upsurge of neo-Fascism. The former Italian Chief-of-Staff, General de Lorenzo, is an MSI Minister of Parliament. Admiral Birindelli, present commander of the NATO naval forces in Southern Europe, has announced that he too will become an active supporter of the MSI once his tour of duty is concluded. General Francesco Mereu, present Army Chief-of-Staff and a favored candidate for the soon to be vacant position of Armed Forces Chief-of-Staff, is known to be very sympathetic with the neo-Fascist cause.

There have been calls from certain quarters – mostly Marxist – for government suppression of the MSI and other neo-Fascist organizations. A 1952 law makes it a crime punishable with up to five years imprisonment to organize a Fascist party or for anyone to "extol the exponents, principles, facts or methods of Fascism."

A mere "manifestation of Fascism," such as wearing a blackshirt or giving the Roman salute could result in three months imprisonment for the offender. That these laws are not being rigorously enforced by the government is indicative of the changing mood of the public. The growing popular support of neo-Fascism is creating the greatest crisis of the post-war Italian political system since it was established under the protection of Allied bayonets 27 years ago.

New Zealand

The New Zealand parliament has passed a "Race Relations Bill" which becomes effective in April.

National Socialists have been vigorous opponents of this anti-White legislation which is designed to outlaw White racial self-defense and encourages miscegenation. A contingent of National Socialists counter-demonstrated in Auckland recently against a march of 700 Reds who were protesting against South Africa's apartheid policy.

The New Zealand government has for many years winked at the illegal immigration into the country of Polynesians and other non-Whites. Many White New Zealand workers have been thrown into economic hardship by such mercenary capitalist policies.

North America

The National Socialist White Peoples' Party has witnessed new growth and ever-increasing street activism. A new unit has been established in the Jewish-stronghold of Philadelphia, where 500-600 White citizens in the suburb of Kensington (location of the new NSWPP unit), rallied behind the Party and drove 30 members of the Jewish Defense League, who had shown up to "shut down the Nazis," out of the neighborhood.

On June 25, Commander Matt Koehl led a contingent of 50 National Socialists, accompanied by the White Power bus, to an outdoor rally on Grandfather Mountain in North Carolina. The National Socialist group was well received by the approximately 5,000 people attending the country-style affair and much information was disseminated on the Movement.

Miami Beach, Florida, U.S.A. – NSWPP Stormtroopers capture Marxist platform.

An outdoor rally was held at the Washington Monument grounds in Washington, D.C., on 2 July. The rally attracted around 1,000 onlookers, made up mostly of tourists. Towards the latter half of the rally, as Commander Koehl began to speak, several disorders broke out between Stormtroopers and some local hippies and leftists who tried to stop the rally. The leftists and a couple of Blacks were quickly dealt with by the Stormtroops. The police authorities became uneasy, however, and the rally was cut short upon their instructions.

For the first time in recent American history, both major political parties held their nominating conventions in the same city – Miami Beach, Florida. Miami Beach has the highest per centage of Jews of any American city – 90%.

Grasping at this golden opportunity, Commander Koehl led a group of Stormtroopers to this Jewish metropolis to protest for the forgotten White American. Activities started with a bang when the troopers in civilian dress, entered the Marxist stronghold of Flamingo Park. In the midst of 2,000 Reds, the National Socialists stormed the main speakers' platform and held it for two hours. Commander Koehl demanded that all Red flags be removed before they would give up the platform. Naturally the Reds finally refused and a battle broke out in which one National Socialist and four Reds were hospitalized for serious injuries.

Additional activities included picketing in front of Key Biscayne, President Nixon's Southern White House, and in front of the Fontainebleau Hotel, scene of a ball for Republican delegates. Toward the end of the convention, Commander Koehl personally challenged the constitutionality of an anti-Swastika ordinance and was arrested. He was found guilty in court the next day and fined $500 and sentenced to 90 days in jail. He is appealling the sentence and is now free on $1,000 bond.

The fourth annual Congress of the World Union of National Socialists will be held in Arlington, Virginia, on September 2-4. It will mark the 10th anniversary of the founding of WUNS in the Cotswolds, England, on 2 August 1962. The Congress will also pay tribute to Lincoln Rockwell on the fifth anniversary of his martyrdom.

Spain

It is with profound sorrow that we bid farewell to Comrade Friedrich Kuhfuss, who passed away in Barcelona. Comrade Kuhfuss was a member of the World Union of National Socialists.

Before and during the war, Kuhfuss was head of the Labor Front organization in Hamburg. During the height of the Allied terror bombings, Comrade Kuhfuss and his family elected to stay in the beleagured city. As a National Socialist and a labor leader he felt it was his duty to share the fate of the millions of workers and civilians who suffered agony and death at the hands of Allied fire bombs.

As a result, Comrade Kuhfuss lost his entire family in such a bombing raid. Despite this terrible personal loss, Kuhfuss continued his duties and served National Socialism and the population of Hamburg until the end of the war, when he was forced to flee to Spain because the Allies wanted him as a "war criminal."

Comrade Kuhfuss continued his National Socialist work in Spain, where he made many good friends and comrades. Friedrich Kuhfuss' example of selflessness and total commitment to National Socialism stands as an inspiration to us all. We salute him. Heil Hitler!

El Escorial, Spain – 3,000 Falangists give the Aryan salute at recent rally.

Norway

An excellent publication which may be of interest to Scandinavian National Socialists is Folk og Land, a bi-weekly newspaper in the Norwegian language. A serialization of Commander Koehl's treatise, "America: A Racial Mission," was begun in Folk og Land beginning with the 20 May issue. The address is: Boks 3214, Sagene, Oslo, NORWAY.

Growing unrest continues in Spain in light of General Franco's measures to re-install the monarchy in the person of Prince Juan Carlos de Bourbon. In recent years, the Franco regime has worked closely with technocrats and followers of the Opus Dei in an effort to completely neutralize Falangist influence within the government.

The mass rally last November of 3,000 blue-shirted Falangists at El Escorial, a mountain-top shrine outside of Madrid built in memory of the Falangists who fell during the Spanish Civil War, was the first public demonstration expressing opposition to the proposed institution of the unpopular royal house.

The large gathering, strongly represented by young Falangists, waved red and black Falange flags and large pictures of Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera, the young founder of the Falange who was executed by the Communists in 1936.

Falangists chanted, "Falange yes, monarchy no!" and "Falange yes, idiot kings no!" Many shouted against the Opus Dei, a liberal Catholic lay organization which has achieved much influence within the Franco government in recent years.

Carlos Ruiz, a Falange leader, told the assembled blueshirts that the government had tried to prevent their meeting. "Now comrades," he assured them, "we are going to continue the struggle." Larger Falange rallies of upwards of 20,000 people protested this spring against the Bourbon pretender.

Cedade is a militant Falangist publication devoted to European and international Aryan co-operation and understanding. It deals frankly with the Jewish problem and related matters. The address of this Spanish language magazine is: Apartado de Correos 14010, Barcelona, SPAIN.

On May 19 a special mass was held at the Catholic Church of San Idelfonso in Madrid to commemorate the 27th anniversary of the death of Adolf Hitler.

Some 1,500 persons attended, including many bemedaled veterans of the Spanish Blue Division which fought on the Eastern Front during World War II. Many youths attending the service wore Swastika insignia in their lapels.

The congregation sang war songs outside the church under the eyes of the police. As the crowd began to sing the National Socialist anthem, Die Fahne Hoch! (Raise the Banner) and the Falangist hymn, Cara al Sol (Face to the Sun), a sea of arms went up in the Aryan salute.

According to a special prepared notice, the service was organized "by a group of grateful Spaniards to pay homage to Hitler and all those who died with him in the defense of Christianity and Western Civilization."

Yugoslavia

Some 20-30 Croatian freedom fighters have been killed or captured during the month of June by Communist troops and police of the Tito regime. The anti-Communist Croatian forces, known as Ustashi, have infiltrated into Croatia from Austria and Italy. The Ustashi have been using the forests of western Bosnia as their base of operations.

The Ustashi receives training in non-Communist countries and is supported by Croatian communities around the world. The Croatian communities in countries like West Germany, Spain, Argentina, Australia and the United States have been instrumental in causing the Tito government much discomfort.

Mr. Fabian Lovokovic, secretary of the central council of the Croatian Association of Australia, which represents 100,000 Croatian immigrants in that country, declared at a recent public rally in Melbourne. "We are demonstrating to free Croatia from President Tito's repressive Communist rule."

The Communist Yugoslav government has applied pressure in countries like West Germany and Australia in an attempt to have the Ustashi and anti-Tito demonstrations suppressed. In West Germany, these efforts have met with some success. Anti-Tito meetings and demonstrations have been banned in Frankfurt.

Closer to home, however, the Belgrade government has been treading a more cautious path. In Zagreb, the capital of Croatia, the 40,000 students, faculty and staff of Zagreb University have rallied to the support of the Croatian independence movement. Zvonimir Cicak, a non-Communist who was recently elected the university's first student deputy rector, described the growing current in Croatia as a revolt "directed against the intentional or unintentional genocide practiced against the Croatian nation. . ." The Zagreb University student board, originally dominated by Communists, now has only four out of 19 members who are Marxists.

The second most populous of the six republics comprising the Yugoslav state, Croatia by history and tradition has been the most Western-oriented. During the war, Croatia was a member of the Axis. Its leader, Ante Pavelic, was the founder of the anti-Jewish and anti-Marxist Ustashi organization. The Ustashi government was a bitter opponent of the growing Communist terrorist forces which were growing more powerful in Yugoslavia thanks to the money and supplies provided it by Western Allies.

IN MEMORIAM:

Comrade Erhart Reinhardt was a relentless fighter for the National Socialist Cause. His death is a loss not only to our German brethern but to National Socialists everywhere.

A member of WUNS for ten years, Comrade Reinhardt served 15 months imprisonment for his opposition to Germany's puppet Bonn government.

During his cruel confinement in poor surroundings, Reinhardt's spirit was irrepressible. He re-entered the political struggle upon his release. Disgusted by the armchair strategists and their defeatist bromides, Reinhardt declared, "The future does not belong to the devilry of Jewish-Bolshevik slavery, but to the great Idea that fights deception and idiocy -- National Socialism."

Comrade Reinhardt was taken to Munich-Schwabing hospital in critical condition after being jumped and almost beaten to death. Despite his multiple skull fractures, Reinhardt related to a National Socialist comrade who visited him in the hospital who his assailants were. He died on the following day.

Comrade Reinhardt's dedication, loyalty, and perseverance stands as an inspiration to all Aryans. Let no one call himself a National Socialist who fears his example.

A native of Australia, Comrade Eric Wenberg was a worldwide representative of WUNS. He was establishing important contacts for the Movement at the time of his death in Rhodesia.

The cause of death was officially cited as an automobile accident. But evidence indicated that Wenberg may have been the victim of foul play.

Comrade Wenberg visited the United States in 1967. It was at that time that he met Commander Koehl.

Wenberg received international headlines when he courageously denounced the Marxist assassin of Lincoln Rockwell in the courtroom. He was deported from the U.S. and returned to Australia, where he dedicated himself to developing a strong National Socialist Movement.

Despite repeated threats and violent attacks on himself, Eric Wenberg continued in his determination to bring the truths of National Socialism to his fellow White Australians. On one occasion while trying to speak in Brisbane's Centennial Park, Wenberg and a handful or Stormtroopers battled with 200 Jews.

All National Socialists mourn the death of Comrade Eric Wenberg and share with our Australian comrades the loss of this proud son of our race.
